DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of claims 1-16 in Paper No. 8-19-05 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 2, 5-14 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Brigham et al (2001/0036693). The reference to Brigham teaches the inventive structure, for example as shown in Fig. 9, with a fin field effect transistor having a fin (104) above the substrate, source/drain regions (114) outside the fin and above the substrate, a gate (120) along the fin, and a diffusion barrier (112) situated between the source/drain regions and the fin, and where the fin acts as the channel between the source and drain, as claimed.

In addition, the transistor of Brigham may have polysilicon in the source/drain regions [0045], be formed on an insulating substrate (SOI) [0023], and include gate sidewall spacers (122). The reference also meets the geometric limitations as to the relative positioning of the source/drain regions.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Brigham. The alignment of the outer edge of the gate spacers with the end face of the fin would be an obvious design variant in a fin device where the fin is raised above the substrate, in order to support the sidewall spacer.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 3 and 4 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
